Course Description

Introduction to Media and Communication Studies provides an overview of the structure and function of contemporary media and asks basic questions about its place in contemporary society. It introduces students to the principal concepts and analytical tools for critically engaging the products and practices of the media. In addition to considering the socio-political implications of a wide range of images, narratives, and contexts, the course examines strategies and trends in media production, distribution, public policy, audience formation, and recent phenomenon such as “fake news”.

Course Learning Outcomes

Have a conceptual vocabulary for understanding formal/compositional aspects of media.
Have a critical-theoretical vocabulary for critically analyzing media artifacts, media’s role in social processes, and media businesses.
Understand different aspects of the field of media and communications (e.g., Film, Audience studies, semiotics, narrative and genre analysis, political economy of media, cultural studies, journalism and political communication, advertising).

Attendance Policy

Students studying at The American University of Paris are expected to attend ALL scheduled classes, and in case of absence, should contact their professors to explain the situation. It is the student’s responsibility to be aware of any specific attendance policy that a faculty member might have set in the course syllabus. The French Department, for example, has its own attendance policy, and students are responsible for compliance. Academic Affairs will excuse an absence for students’ participation in study trips related to their courses.

Attendance at all exams is mandatory.

IN ALL CASES OF MISSED COURSE MEETINGS, THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR COMMUNICATION WITH THE PROFESSOR, AND FOR ARRANGING TO MAKE UP MISSED WORK, RESTS SOLELY WITH THE STUDENT.

Whether an absence is excused or not is ALWAYS up to the discretion of the professor or the department. Unexcused absences can result in a low or failing participation grade. In the case of excessive absences, it is up to the professor or the department to decide if the student will receive an “F” for the course. An instructor may recommend that a student withdraw, if absences have made it impossible to continue in the course at a satisfactory level.

Students must be mindful of this policy when making their travel arrangements, and especially during the Drop/Add and Exam Periods.

Grading Policy

- Student Blog (25%) – 4 blog posts of 500-750 words each giving a synopsis and analysis of assigned articles. Students will create their own blogs on Wordpress, Tumblr, Blogger.com, Medium or another platform of their choice.
- Mid-term exam (25%) – In-class exam tests students on their knowledge and understanding of readings, lectures, and assignments from the first half of the semester.
- Presentation and participation (25%) – Students will work in small groups of 2 or 3 and present a 15-20 minute “case study” to the class. Students will also be graded on attendance and participation in class discussions.
- Final exam (25%) – Exam tests students on their knowledge and understanding of readings, lectures, and assignments covering the entire course.
